Butz seeking 30-day Soviet sales delay

© Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — Concerned about parched growing conditions in the western corn belt, Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz has asked for a 30-day delay in additional grain sales to the Soviet Union "to be on the safe side."

Despite forecasts of record corn and wheat harvests, Butz indicated that he would await a Sept. 10 estimate before deciding whether to give a go-ahead for more exports to offset the poor Soviet harvest.

U.S. companies already have sold 9.18 million tons of American grain to the Kremlin and may sell another 5 million tons or more later this year because of drought in Russia.

Butz, however, asked the U.S. firms to refrain from making additional deals with the Soviets until the size of the American harvest can be gauged with more certainty.

The Ford administration has come under political attack for renewed grain deals with the Soviets on grounds that the sales will drive up prices of food in the United States.

Reacting to the latest official outlook, the American Farm Bureau Federation said the United States could sell 20 million tons of grain to the Soviet Union and still add to U.S. reserves.

The AFL-CIO Longshoremen's union has threatened to block shipments of U.S. grain to the Soviet Union if the exports would bring higher food prices. Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur S. Burns has warned of a sizable rise in food prices if the Soviet purchases are increased.

Japan and the United States announced agreement today under which Japan will continue to buy 14 million tons or more of grains and soybeans during the next three years.

Officials said the agreement included assurances Japan will not be cut off by export controls such as those imposed in 1973.

At a news conference, however, Butz said the impact of the Soviet purchase on U.S. price levels would be "negligible" if the American crops are not reduced further by droughtlike conditions in the Plains states.

"We wanted to slow this down until we got a better fix — especially on the corn crop," Butz said.

Meanwhile, an American reporting team just back from Moscow announced another reduction in U.S. estimates of the Soviet grain harvest.

Gem spud acreage dips

TWIN FALLS — The potato crop acreage in south central and southeastern Idaho will decline 5 per cent this year compared to 1974, the U.S. Department of Agriculture Statistical Reporting Service said Monday.

The agency said the spud acreage in the 20 counties, including Magic Valley, is about 369,000 acres this year, compared to 363,000 last year.

The acreage in Idaho's 10 southwestern counties is down 15 per cent, to 33,000 acres from 39,000, the agency said.

Overall, the potato acreage will be down six per cent from 1974, according to the report. About 321,000 acres of potatoes were predicted for harvest this year, compared to 343,000 last year.

Statistician Howard Bosart said his agency's first yield-per-acre estimates will be released Oct. 10.

"Late planting and cool weather have held the crop back in southern Idaho," he said. They also have "slowed the emergence of crop in eastern Idaho."

A cold, wet spring kept farmers from planting until about two weeks after the normal date, he said.

Wagons eastward

Wagons roll through TF

TWIN FALLS — Whole families stood at street corners along Addison and Main St. as the bicentennial wagon train lumbered through Twin Falls this morning.

One of the biggest attractions was the patient team of oxen bringing up the rear of the train. The oxen seem to enjoy the attention of several little girls who had time to pat them as the wagons gathered at the end of Main for the trip through town.

Driving the oxen were a former Twin Falls couple, Chris and Evelyn Christiansen, Forest Grove, Ore. Former owners of C and H

Auction, the couple moved to Forest Grove in 1955, where Christiansen was a deputy sheriff until he retired last June to join the train.

Tonight the team will camp with the rest of the wagon at Rock Creek after a 20-mile journey from Filter. Another 26 miles will take them into Burley around 4 p.m., and another 18 miles on Thursday will bring them to Declo. On Friday they expect to be at East Horse Butte, Christiansen said.

The train arrives in Laramie, Wyo., Oct. 15, and will winter there, although the Christiansens will take their team back to Oregon until time to start for Valley Forge, Pa., again next March.

Leading the two-ox team in line is Lawrence Davis, Hillsboro, Ore., who says he "just retired" in Oregon. He walks alongside the team.

Mrs. Christiansen, wearing a long dress, was perched on the seat of the big dragon as it rolled down Main St. She is the brakeman for the wagon while her husband takes the lead.

The team is the fourth he has broken. Christiansen said, since he started raising oxen

Autopsy scheduled

JEROME — An autopsy was scheduled today to determine the cause of death of Jerome man who died Monday night while swimming in the Tipperware pool.

Elmer Jerry Hicks, 34, was pronounced dead on arrival last night at St. Benedict's Hospital after being taken from the pool where he was swimming lessons.

According to Jerome County Coroner Dr. Lauren Neher, an autopsy was scheduled today to determine whether Hicks drowned or died from some other cause.

Jerome County Sheriff Elza Hall said Hicks was one of two persons taking swimming lessons at the company pool when he suddenly went under the water and could not be revived after being taken from the pool.

Assistant Tipperware manager Ray Camara confirmed that Hicks had been one of only two persons in the pool at the time of his death.

Camara said a lifeguard pulled Hicks from the pool within 30 seconds of the time he slipped under the water.

Prior to going under, Camara said, Hicks had not appeared to be in any trouble.

The incident, the first death in the year-old company pool, occurred about 8:15 p.m.

Camara said Hicks was not an employee of Tipperware, Camara said, but was enrolled in the swimming lessons through a company family swimming plan. Hicks' wife, Nora Ann, is employed by Tipperware, Camara said.

TF shelter home 'still alive'

By DAVID HORSMAN

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "The Magic Valley Living Center is still alive" — at least for one or two more weeks, Len Ellinger, acting manager of the shelter home, said today.

Repairs were granted Monday by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare (IHW) which had threatened to close the facility southwest of Twin Falls unless equipment deficiencies were remedied.

The state agency had warned that it would not issue an operating license to the center until 20-solid-core doors and a fire alarm smoke detector system — were installed.

The deadline was Monday and Ellinger admitted that the deficiencies had not been corrected.

However, after a three-hour meeting with operators of the shelter home and area legislators, IHW licensing officials agreed to let the center remain in operation until another meeting is held in Boise in one or two weeks, according to Ellinger.

IHW officials were not available this morning for comment on the Monday meeting.

"We hashed everything out and pretty much all of the legislators suggested that IHW sit down with me and try to work out our differences," Ellinger said today.

According to Ellinger, the center cannot afford to install the required equipment now. He estimated the cost at over $5,000.

Although the shelter home can accommodate up to 72 handicapped persons, it currently houses only 18, Ellinger told the Times-News.

At that occupancy rate, "we're just breaking even now," he said. "So the money we get goes right back into operating the place."

"If we can get between five and 10 more residents, that will put us into the black where we can afford these improvements," Ellinger said.

Increased occupancy depends a great deal on IHW, he added. "IHW carries the greatest weight in recommending placements because social workers search out new homes for the handicapped," he said.

Asked if the IHW officials had agreed to refer persons to the center in an effort to better its financial condition, Ellinger said one of the area legislators "expected a good faith showing on both sides. And I think that would be part of good faith on our part of IHW and the good faith on our part is to keep up a good shelter home and make these improvements."

Projecting development was at a critical stage with final production subject to the near term vagaries of weather," the crop reporting board said of the western sections of the corn belt. "Timely August rains will be necessary to avoid a repeat of the disappointing 1974 yields."

Illinois, however, has a "good to excellent crop" after local thunderstorms provided moisture for the corn crop.

The department estimated record wheat production this year of 1,341 billion bushels, or 19.9 per cent more than 1974's record setting harvest. The figure was 2 per cent below the July forecast because of the hot, dry weather in wheat-growing states, however.

Soybean production, the department said, was estimated at 1,458 billion bushels, the second largest crop in history, but still 6 per cent below the 1973 record harvest of 1,547 billion bushels.

Illinois, the leading soybean producer, was expected to have a record yield of 35 bushels per acre, or 10.5 more bushels than last year's per acre yield.

Under the present forecast, Illinois will take over as the nation's leading corn state, with 1.16 billion bushels compared to 1.09 billion for Iowa, where rainfall was 12

Don Paarberg, the department's chief economist, said rains since Aug. 1 have been sparse and scattered, so a further drop in the grain harvest is probable.

Richard Bell, assistant secretary of agriculture, estimated U.S. exports of corn — ranging between 1.43 billion and 1.45 billion bushels and exports of wheat would range from 1.15 billion bushels to 1.35 billion bushels this year.

Partners have been holding record amounts of key grains and cotton since last year in expectation of higher prices.

Normally, only 20 percent of any rise in basic foodstuffs is reflected immediately. The rest takes time to work through channels.

In any event, commodity traders also stressed that the August crop report had been discounted because, as one broker noted: "Anyone who operates on the basis of public reports plays with transparent cards."

As far as the trade was concerned, the big surprise was in the acreage given over to potatoes — 1.27 million, compared with 1.38 million last year. At that time farmers expected the recession to stimulate potato buying.

When potato prices dropped from a record $19 a hundredweight in February, 1974, to $5.50 in the year they vowed to reduce their next crop. Apparently they have.

THE AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

The American Farm Bureau Federation said Monday Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz' temporary ban on grain sales to the Soviet Union is a serious mistake.

This action of the secretary is likely to have the same disastrous effect as the embargo on soybean exports in 1973 which caused a drastic drop in farm income," Farm Bureau President William Kuhfuss said in a statement.

Kuhfuss said Butz' action would damage the United States' reputation as "a reliable supplier of grains in the world market."

Kuhfuss said restrictions on farm exports could hurt both farmers and the national market.

He said the government's

Aug. 1 forecast of record

crops of corn and wheat in the United States could sell 20 million tons of grain to the Soviet Union and still add to the carry over stock for next year.

"It would be extreme folly for the United States to yield to political and union pressures, and deprive American producers access to world markets," he said.

Kindergarten workshop held

TWIN FALLS — More than 70 educators met here Monday for a kindergarten workshop sponsored by the Idaho Department of Education.

Mrs. Lelia Lewis, department consultant for pupil personnel, said the workshop is one of six being given across the state as a basic introduction to kindergarten programs.

Many districts will initiate a state kindergarten bill, Mrs. Lewis said, because of passage of the state kindergarten bill.

"This is the first time some of the school districts will have a kindergarten program," she said. "Our main concern is that they (the programs) are not a junior first grade (but) ... truly a kindergarten program."

Kindergarten programs should emphasize readiness rather than the teaching of basic skills, Mrs. Lewis said. An individualized development program for each child should be adopted.

Some children coming into kindergarten will be almost reading, others won't be able to hold a pencil, Mrs. Lewis said, so an individual approach is necessary.

Principals, superintendents, teachers and other school personnel from Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Wood River Valley and other Magic Valley schools attended the conference which ran from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

Topics covered at the "conference" included pre-school screening, information about the growth and development needs in the kindergarten child, and characteristics and activities of the kindergarten child. Also discussed were use of equipment, learning centers, goals and activities in curriculum planning. Mrs. Lewis said.

Reception planned

TWIN FALLS — A reception for Fr. Patrick Meagher, O.S.B., who is assuming new duties as pastor of St. Agatha's Church in Portland, Ore., will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. Benedict's Priory on Falls Avenue.

All friends of Fr. Patrick are invited.

He came to Jerome in March of 1965 to make a preliminary survey of the priory site and to recommend immediate measures toward starting the new monastic settlement.

He served in this area from 1965 until 1967 when he was joined by Fr. Simeon Van De Voord, O.S.B., and together they established the Ascension Priory, commonly called St. Benedict's Priory, on Falls Avenue.

Fr. Patrick has served in surrounding communities in addition to his role as prior of Ascension Priory.

TF trustees meet tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls School Board will meet with city and county officials at 6 p.m. today to discuss the future of O'Leary Junior High School.

The sale of the Washington School and property will also be discussed in the board's regular meeting at the school administration building.

School Sup't. George Staudaher has recommended the district hold a bond election to construct a new junior high school at an already purchased site at the southeast side of town.

Staudaher said new life-safety laws require improvements to the O'Leary school that could cost up to $700,000. He said he felt it was more practical to build another school than invest money in the present building.

City and county officials have been considering building an addition to the county judicial building and have discussed using the O'Leary property as a site.

School and local government officials claim taxpayers would get a saving out of the plan.

Minidoka slates hospital vote

Commissioners agreed, remarking that the chambers of commerce and other organizations constantly received requests regarding population and this would update their information too.

Johnson estimated that the county and Rupert would regain the expenditure "in a couple of years."

The commissioners had decided a month ago to call for an election on a bond issue of $700,000, the estimated cost of the hospital expansion program. Board chairman Lynn Barton explained that commissioners learned the bond election would cost another $40,000.

Barton said the board had planned to hold the election Aug. 25 but found it needed the extra week for legal advertising.

Larry Duff, Rupert, is chairman of the hospital board. He appeared before the board Monday to make formal request for the bond issue.

Duff offered the tentative estimate that the bonds would cost four mills the first year and three mills thereafter during the 20-year life of the bonds.

Duff said the basic use of the bonds would be to provide 45 intermediate care beds for those patients requiring less extensive care than do the present wards. He said this would be more economical.

Although the staffing pattern for these beds has not been determined by the state, Duff estimated that it would cost about $150 less per month to care for a patient in the intermediate care beds.

Cassia officials probe robbery

BURLEY — Cassia County sheriff's deputies and other law enforcement agencies are seeking two men who robbed a Burley-area market Friday night.

The two men held up the Y-Del Market on East Highway 30 about 8:50 p.m.

A deputy reported that the men entered the store just as two employees were preparing to close the store for the day.

One of the men pulled out a hunting knife and demanded the money which the pair stuffed in a brown paper bag.

Ordering the cashier and boy to lie on the floor, the men left. The employees were unable to say which direction the bandits took or what kind of car they might have used.

A deputy said the loss was reported at over $370.

Both men were described as about 5 feet 10 inches tall and wore denim trousers. One weighed about 160 pounds and was 32-35 years old with short brown hair and wearing a light blue shirt.

The employees described the other as about 210 pounds, 36 years old, with short reddish hair, half and wearing a print shirt.

A statewide police bulletin has been issued with the descriptions. A deputy said only one return has come on the bulletin. The man did not match either description.

Pocatello man hurt in crash

KIMBERLY — A Pocatello man was in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today following a one-car rollover north of Kimberly Monday.

Jeffrey R. Clawson, 18, Pocatello, suffered back injuries and abrasions when his car left Highway 50 about two miles north of Kimberly Monday morning, went through a fence, hit an irrigation ditch, glanced off a tree and then rolled over.

Clawson was taken to the hospital by ambulance following the accident.

According to Idaho State Patrolman Jim Whitehead, the cause of the accident is still under investigation. The accident occurred about 7:45 a.m.

Clawson's car was totaled, Whitehead said. Two accidents Sunday resulted in less serious injuries to the victims.

Verl Gray, 42, American Falls, was treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after his car left old US Highway 30 east of Hansen on a railroad overpass.

According to ISP Cpl. Frank Mogensen, Gray apparently passed out at the wheel after drinking.

Gray was treated and released for minor lacerations at the hospital before being charged with drunk driving.

Mogensen said Gray's vehicle struck the guard rail on the overpass which "welded" the left side of the vehicle to the rail, causing it to tear away from the rest of the car which spun around, blocking both lanes of traffic.

Gray was treated and released for minor lacerations at the hospital before being charged with drunk driving.

Mogensen said a ruptured gas tank posed a potential fire danger and was hosed away by the Kimberly Fire Department.

Five women equal one wife.

Spokane Spokesman-Review

Margaret Mead, the noted anthropologist, came up with a good idea the other day. She said that wives should get credit toward Social Security retirement for their work in the home.

In a technical sense, wives receive Social Security benefits as partners with their husbands, and if they are widowed, they continue to get pension payments. However, in the broader grained outlook, Miss Mead has an excellent point.

At the root of her thought is the fact that most wives put in many years of labor as homemakers and that labor is just as essential — or perhaps more so — to the functioning of the family than what the father or husband contributes.

Miss Mead declares that "it takes the work of five women to equal the work of one wife." We might to quantify what a woman does in the home and give her credit when it comes to computing Social Security payments and pensions."

It could be argued that the work of a wife is a labor of love. It could be held with just-as-much logic that a husband, too, is involved in a joint effort stemming from love. The man's earnings, however, are the basis of the Social Security payments and withholdings if he is the only one who does his breadwinning in the marketplace.

Dr. Mead's statement is perhaps in the genre of women's liberation. If so, more power to her. She makes another interesting point, however, and that is that women do men no benefit by excessive dependency. The clinging wife tends to deny the husband the rights of male liberation, she believes.

Equal sharing between husbands and wives is an ideal that may not be possible of achievement. Fair sharing, however, should be an attainable goal, and one step toward that would be to put a value on a wife's work in the home for Social Security credits.

Summary: Traditional views of men's and women's roles need some revising in the government as well as in the marketplace.

Teaching New York to stay afloat

Business Week

The quick and effective rescue of New York City by the new Municipal Assistance Corp. (MAC) has not come up according to the scenario. Like a panicky swimmer, New York has wrapped its arms around its rescuer, and investors cannot tell one from the other as they both sink.

There is plenty of blame for the current situation. MAC was slow to insist that the city administration make a real effort to get its fiscal house in order. Mayor Abraham Beame went back to business as usual as soon as MAC was established. And Governor Hugh Carey has bumbled his role by failing to insist that the city take action. But the situation is not hopeless. What is needed is the recognition by the mayor that he must rebuild his credibility and the city's with investors. It is not enough that Beame himself feels that he has done a lot.

If MAC is to raise money for the city, investors must be convinced that there will be no default on New York's own bonds or on the MAC issue. Loose talk by city officials and labor leaders about "lenders sharing the burdens" makes it impossible to raise money.

The newly reconstituted MAC board is now on the right track when it insists that the city should impose a freeze on spending for three years and that professional management be injected into the city in massive doses. Significant progress already has been made in one area — convincing union leaders, despite their bellwether rhetoric, that the city will never get back on its feet without major improvements in productivity. This gives the mayor the opportunity to make radical changes.

The price for failure of MAC is too high to pay. If it cannot finance New York City's new cash crisis, the city will have to default on its debts. This would not only ruin New York's credit for a generation, it would also destroy the credit rating of many other cities and raise the cost of municipal borrowing everywhere.

Berry's World

Grain business as usual

London Economist News Service

WASHINGTON — (LENS) — Russian buyers have left the United States with import contracts for 9.8 million tons of grains tucked under their arms.

The spree has ended, but American officials expect more buying after mid-August. The Department of Agriculture revised its forecast of the Russian grain crop sharply downwards again from the 195 million tons predicted a few weeks ago. More difficult problems cast the doubt over whether the Volga river could mean up to 10 million tons more sales for the Midwest.

The United States has so far been Russia's main supplier. Canada is only supplying 2 million tons of wheat, and Australia 750,000 tons. How much grain can be sold will depend on the size of the American crop (of which 4.5 million tons are already committed).

If all goes well, Russian buyers should be back, but the deals already made ensure this year's farm exports will be at least equal to 1974's $21 billion. This is a vindication of the free-market policy of Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, and it is likely to keep the powerful farm lobby happy throughout the presidential election year.

The government, however, has its hands full pacifying resentment at the large sales from consumers and politicians. There is still a harsh memory of the 1972 grain sale to Russia (almost 20 million tons of grains altogether). Those sales caused world prices to rocket for the next two years.

The new assistant secretary of agriculture, Richard Bell, will now start a campaign to demonstrate why the sales will not do what they did in 1972. The size of the shipments will be smaller (though perhaps by less than 5 million tons). Since 1972 the administration has abolished price supports to exporters which meant the Russians were actually paying a stepped-up price and then in some cases reselling it at full price). And, lastly, world grain production this year is estimated at 6 per cent higher than last year, with most of the rise in the United States.

But there has been a justified outcry that, as in 1972, the grain deals have been cleaned up in secrecy.

The contracts have been mostly negotiated in Moscow by the large independent grain dealers, only one of which, Cook Industries, is a public company obliged to publish its accounts. The other main companies, Bunge Corporation, Cargill and Continental Grain are among the biggest companies in the United States and yet, being private, are responsible to neither shareholders nor any government agency.

Number seven was the famous rug, given by Chambers to Hiss as an expression of gratitude from the Communist Party. Independent testimony confirms that the rug was bought, and accepted by Hiss. Hiss's explanation of his possession of it was unreasonable beyond a reasonable doubt.

The eighth was the matter of Hiss giving Chambers $400 to buy a second-hand car. The records reveal that Hiss withdrew $400 in cash four days before Chambers paid $400 in cash for a car. Coincidence is unreasonably strained, given the surrounding narrative, by insisting that the two transactions were discrete.

The ninth was the earlier transfer of Hiss's gold Ford, which he earlier philanthropically offered to donate for the general use of a Communist op-

Evidence upholds guilt

I suppose if Jack Ruby had enough free lawyers bobbing about him, plus a phony civil libertarians' committee, plus half the native agents, he would be desperate to believe him guilty. They would have us all believing, in due course, that he didn't in fact kill Lee Harvey Oswald; that it was double; or else a plot by the networks or the Central Intelligence Agency.

When you think of it, it is hard to get unanimity of opinion on the guilt of anybody.

It is an old story nowadays that Oswald didn't kill the first Kennedy, a not-so-old but robust thesis that Sirhan Sirhan killed the second Kennedy; there is growing suspicion that James Earl Ray didn't kill Martin Luther King, that what's-his-name wasn't the real culprit in the attempted killing of George Wallace; that Bruno Hauptmann didn't really kidnap the Lindbergh baby, that the Rosenbergs weren't really guilty; that the people who were hanged for it weren't really accomplices of John Wilkes Booth — on back through Drayton (a Socrates himself who was in fact guilty under Athenian law).

All the more useful, under the circumstances, is an article of overwhelming sobriety published in the current issue of Commentary magazine. It is called simply, "Was Alger Hiss Guilty?" and it could have been written by a computer, so dry and factual is it, so obsessively concerned to drain every last bit of blus out of the recounting of the story.

If it is written by a professor of law at Cornell, Irving Younger, who had served as an attorney in private practice and as an assistant United States attorney as judge in both the civil and criminal courts in New York City. Younger has taught evidence at both Columbia and New York law schools and he says that the question: Was Alger Hiss guilty? requires, finally, that you take a position concerning 10 contradictions on which Hiss and Chambers gave conflicting evidence that emerged from the sea of testimony.

Younger concludes that if respect of the first five the evidence is moot; you cannot find against Hiss without reasonable doubt. The sixth weight in favor of Hiss. The seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth conflict Hiss.

Number seven was the famous rug, given by Chambers to Hiss as an expression of gratitude from the Communist Party. Independent testimony confirms that the rug was bought, and accepted by Hiss. Hiss's explanation of his possession of it was unreasonable beyond a reasonable doubt.

The eighth was the matter of Hiss giving Chambers $400 to buy a second-hand car. The records reveal that Hiss withdrew $400 in cash four days before Chambers paid $400 in cash for a car. Coincidence is unreasonably strained, given the surrounding narrative, by insisting that the two transactions were discrete.

The ninth was the earlier transfer of Hiss's gold Ford, which he earlier philanthropically offered to donate for the general use of a Communist operative. Hiss said he gave the car to Chambers. The records show that Hiss himself signed a document assigning title to the Chemer Motor Co., which then repossessed the car to William Rosen, but left the transaction out of the record books. William Rosen, summoned to the stand, refused to say whether he was a Communist.

We approach Götterdämmerung, namely the typewriter. A huge amount of publicity has been given to the typewriter, the innumerable assumption among pro-Hiss people being that either Whitaker Chambers himself forged the typewriter, or else that the F.B.I. did. Every time there is a press conference on the matter, it is suggested that any day now it will be established that the typewriter presented at the trial was a forgery. But any day has a way of never coming.

What is especially tantalizing about it all is that preposterous though it is, it wouldn't actually alter the matter if it happened to be so. Because what hauled Hiss was the indisputable identity between the typewriter used in the mid-thirties by Priscilla Hiss to write letters to Bryan Mawr on amateur business, and the typewriter used during the same period to write paragraphs and copies of secret State Department documents turned over to Chambers.

Perhaps the next step is for one of Alger Hiss's lawyers to claim that Whitaker Chambers posed as the secretary of the Bryn Mawr Alumnae Association in 1938 for the purpose of abusing Hiss in 1948.

I have no doubt there are many people around who would believe it.

Cockeyed idea but check-due

CHICAGO — The director of the Center for UFO Studies says unidentified flying objects could be spacecraft from other planets, although he thinks the idea "sounds cockeyed."

It seems ridiculous that "any" intelligence would come from distant places to do reportedly stupid things like shooting cars and frightening people," said Dr. J. Allen Hynek, professor of astronomy at Northwestern University.

But Hynek acknowledged that "my position is that we don't know what UFOs are."

Space ships, he said, "are one of the possibilities," adding:

"There are arguments for and against UFOs being spacecraft. Just because it sounds cockeyed doesn't mean we should discard it. If we already knew the answer, there would be no point in having a study center."

Hynek said the center would gather reports of UFO sightings from all over the country, including reports from policemen who have been urged to call a toll-free, 24-hour number to report sightings.

The center was set up with cooperation from scientists from a dozen U.S. universities, as well as police, the FBI and the Civil Defense Agency, Hynek said.

A growing number of "qualified scientists, engineers and other professionals" feel that greater investigative effort is needed "to end a quarter-century of misunderstanding and misrepresentation," he said.

Hynek said more than 45 million Americans believe they have sighted UFO phenomena, and "essentially similar reports persist year after year."

LENS

Not even the Department of Agriculture, it seems, has been able to keep tabs on the negotiations which, by having a direct effect on domestic grain prices, are vital to the administration's policy on controlling inflation.

The American public has a long-standing dislike for large and clandestine corporations, and many of its worst suspicions about the grain companies may have been confirmed as the scandals of forged and substandard shipments of grain from New Orleans and Houston are unraveled.

The Department of Agriculture was particularly lax in overseeing the export shipments of which it so proudly boasted, and not surprisingly it is the farmers themselves who feel most cheated. But the scandals have not dulled customer's appetites for American grains.

Most reaction favorable to Betty Ford's candor

By United Press International

"For the love of Jerry, be discreet," I implored one telegram sent to the White House Monday in reaction to First Lady Betty Ford's statement she wouldn't be surprised if her 18-year-old daughter was having an affair.

But other public comments, many from clergymen, were charitable toward the First Lady and her candor.

Betty Ford, who has weathered a storm of outrage for her stand in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment, sparked another with her comments in a CBS-TV interview Sunday in which she said:

"I wouldn't be surprised if my daughter Susan told her she was having an affair. If I wanted to continue, I would certainly counsel and advise her on the subject and I'd want to know pretty much about the young man that she was planning to have an affair with."

The Supreme Court abortion decision was "a great, great decision."

She assures her four children have tried marriages and she might have as a young girl if it had been popular then.

Mrs. Ford's press secretary, Shelia Rabb Weldenfeld, said from Vail, Colo., Monday the First Lady was not retracting her comments about Susan, but that what she really meant was "she would not kick her daughter out." If Susan said she was having an affair,

Mrs. Weldenfeld said Susan is "proud" of her mother and that she would be able to "talk to her" about any personal problems. But Susan also said, according to Mrs. Weldenfeld, "It is all hypothetical" and the question has not come up.

Among the favorable reactions:

"I wish every girl could have a mother they knew they could be honest with," Susan Bell of Denver said. "Susan Ford is very lucky."

"I think she spoke like a mother and not like a First Lady," Rabbi Gerry Rosenberg of Beth Shalom Synagogue in Northbrook, Ill., said. "It's an appropriate statement for a mother to make."

"It is certainly a relief to have a First Lady who is courageous enough to speak out on her own opinions," Susan Jackson, co-director of Dallas' Women for Change Center, said.

"She was not telling Susan to be promiscuous. She was not encouraging promiscuity. She was just being realistic enough to state that affairs among teenagers are a possibility."

Among the unfavorable reactions in telegrams to the White House:

Arthur Howard, chairman of the board of the Christian-social-concerns-of-the-religious Society of Jesus, or Quakers, said: "We wish to protest against any such statement and to deplore views of that kind as being contrary to the good standards of American society in which chastity outside of marriage is approved."

"Object to your stand on abortion. Cancel my vote in '76."

"How can you approve of abortion and promiscuity in one breath and speak of faith and God in the next?"

Ford signs 20 bills, flies to Vail

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — President Ford has signed some 20 bills and warned Congress to avoid injecting "the federal government too deeply into domestic relations."

One of the measures appropriates $5.3 billion for the Treasury Department, the Postal Service, the General Services Administration, the Civil Service Commission and the Executive Office of the President through the 1976 fiscal year ending next June 30.

Ford signed the bills before flying to this Rocky Mountain resort Sunday for a vacation, the White House said Monday.

Among the other bills, involving tariffs on wages and employment, were amended to allow the states extra time to tighten standards for child support collection efforts. The amendment also requires the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to develop standards "to assure that unreasonable demands are not made on individuals to cooperate with states in their child support collection efforts."

Ford said he was "seriously concerned about the increasing frequency" of Congressional action involving possible infringement on personal rights. He said he had told the HEW secretary to advise Congress at least 60 days before issuing such standards "to protect individuals' interest in child support collection efforts."

Ford recalled that last January, when the new child support program was passed by Congress, he expressed "strong backing" for its goals but concern that some provisions "inject the federal government too deeply into domestic relations and that others raise serious privacy and administrative issues."

Among the other bills, involving tariffs on wages and employment, were amended to allow the states extra time to tighten standards for child support collection efforts.

Increase unemployment and sickness benefits paid to workers covered by the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act.

— Arthur Morton, chairman of the board of the National Cancer Institute, says that in each case tannin is a cancer-causing agent.

In a telephone interview Monday, Dr. Morton explained the tannin in tea is a major factor behind the high incidence of cancer of the esophagus among Singapore Chinese and Japanese. She said both cook their rice with a mixture of tea leaves.

An area of South Carolina, where tannin-containing sassafras tea and persimmons are popular, also has a high esophageal cancer rate, Dr. Morton found.

She said the reason the British, well-known for their tea-drinking habits, escape cancer of the esophagus is that they use milk with the brew and milk neutralizes the effect of the tannin.

Tannin concentration in most red wines, especially those which European vintners fortify with propylene terephthalate and grape seeds, is also high.

Dr. Morton said she reported the found areas of fairly high incidence of esophageal cancer in all wine-drinking regions of France and in an area of Connecticut which has a large population of Italian ancestry who drink dry red wines.

Dr. Morton found others who show a propensity for some form of cancer directly related to tannin intake include:

— The northern Chinese and the Bantu of South Africa, who rely on tannin-containing brown grain sorghum as a food source.

— Cider drinkers in Normandy, where pears and apples used in making the beverage are high in tannin content.

DEAR ABBY: I am confused and distraught. My daughter and her boyfriend, both in their late 20s, are self-supporting. They both experienced disastrous divorces in their 20s.

When they decided to live together six months ago, my husband and I were very upset since we don't believe couples should live together out of wedlock. We were very fond of our boyfriend and still think this happened.

We told her how we felt and that we would not feel foot in her door under those conditions. We further told her that as our beloved daughter she would always be welcome in our home but never to bring Alan with her.

She replied that she was sorry we felt that way, but she wouldn't think of marrying again without having first lived with the man for at least a year. Our only communication since that time was an anniversary card from her.

Do what heart says

Today, I ran into Betty downtown. She bought me lunch, and we chatted like old times. She's happier and more mature now than I've ever seen her. When we parted, she said, "Remember, Mama, our door is always open."

I cried all the way home. It's been a painful separation for all concerned. What do you think we should do?

MAMA

DEAR MAMA: Do what your heart tells you to do. Call Betty and tell her that although the lifestyle she has chosen is not your style, you respect her right as a person to live her own life—and your door is open to her and any of her friends.

DEAR READERS: The following letter was sent to me by a reader. I pass it along without comment:

Dear Customer:
We at the _____ company wish to express our deep appreciation to all our customers and friends for your kind expressions of sympathy when we lost our beloved wife and mother. Every kind word, every warm handshake and every helpful act was gratefully appreciated.

Therefore, we are having a special "thank you" sale. Special pricing has been made possible for this event through the cooperation of our distributors.

The first 100 customers will receive $10 worth of food.

Sincerely,
(NAME OF STORE WITHHELD)

DEAR ABBY: My first cousin Randy and I got into a road shooting match last night, and I need you to back me up.

I say that Randy's children are my second cousins and THEIR children are my third cousins.

Randy says I'm wrong. If I'm wrong, what are Randy's children and grandchildren to me?

Also, if Randy's children are not my second cousins, who are?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Randy's children are NOT your second cousins. They are your first cousins, once removed. And Randy's grandchildren are your first cousins TWICE removed.

If your grandfather had brothers and sisters, THEN your grandchildren would be your second cousins.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to ABBY, Box No. 69709, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

words, a cross ruff is indicated.

It is easy to see why he cashes dummy's ace and king of diamonds to prepare the cross ruff. It is a trifle harder to see why the ace of clubs is taken next. However, look what happens if South doesn't cash that ace of clubs.

When South ruffs a diamond, East discards one club; when he ruffs the last diamond East discards his last club. South makes seven trumps and two diamonds, but the ace of clubs has been made into a loser.

Ask the Jacobys

An Arkansas reader wants to know what you bid after your partner has doubled your left-hand opponent's one heart bid. You hold:

The answer to his question is that you bid two hearts. This bid does not guarantee a heart control, but merely shows a very good hand and forces your partner to bid.

You will take further strong action at your next turn.

Do you have a question for the Jacobys? Write "Ask the Jacobys" on one of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and winners will receive copies of JACBOY MODERN.

The answer is: "Ace of diamonds, King of diamonds, ace of clubs."

If South can score seven tricks in trumps plus two diamonds and one club, he makes his contract. In other

Cassia county fair opens Wednesday

Rail car rans over man's leg

TWIN FALLS -- A Twin Falls man was in serious condition this morning at Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital after a railroad car ran over his leg at Amalgamated Sugar Co. Monday.

Larry Kindred, 22, received severe injury to his left leg and foot when he apparently slipped while setting or releasing a brake on a coal shuttle at the sugar factory.

According to Sheriff Paul Corder, Kindred was injured about 9:30 a.m. when a wheel on the coal car rolled over the front of his leg, crushing bones but not completely severing the leg.

Corder said Kindred, employed as a brakeman on the train, apparently slipped while loading or unloading coal.

According to clinic officials, Kindred's condition had improved today from Monday, but he was still listed in serious condition.

Doctors so far had been able to save the injured leg, a clinic spokesman said.

BURLEY -- The Cassia County Fair, touted as the best in history, opened here Wednesday. "I think it will be better than ever," remarked County Agent Wayne Cole.

Although the working end of the fair has already begun, the festivities really kick off at 3 p.m. Wednesday. That is when the parade will start on South Overland Avenue and wind its way to East Park on Main Street.

The Burley Lions Club will be serving barbecued beef with beans, tomatoes and all the trimmings at East Park from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. The Exchange Club will cap the evening with a country and western Jamboree at the fairgrounds starting at 8 p.m. The jamboree will feature Tommy Overstreet, the Staller Brothers, Freddie Hart and Sue Thompson.

Looking toward his seventh Cassia County Fair, Cole based his optimism on two events that already have taken place.

The 4-H home economics demonstration contest was held last Wednesday and the 4-H style revue was held Friday evening.

"The style revue was bigger and better," Cole said, "and in the demonstrations we had more kids participating than we ever had."

Cole also said all the indications point toward more fat animals in the fair this year. Livestock was still being weighed in until 6 p.m. today, but Cole said more projects were signed up this year than previously.

In March Cole weighed and tagged 181 beefeves, 61 March and 90 sheep.

"We've really had good support from the merchants and farmers at our fair stock sale," Cole remarked. "We sell about 250 head of stock every year. I hope their support will continue."

The sale will begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, the final day of the fair.

Cole also looked for an outstanding horse show today with more home economics projects signed up and more events listed. Horses were entered and judged on quality this morning.

Horse fitting and showing was to begin at 1 p.m. with the new events of horse racing and pole bending to be in the show at 3 p.m. today.

Cole cited Cassia Community Council as the first county to put on a full day show. He said this was the third year of the show and that 25 young horses represented different breeds.

As well as poultry, and miscellaneous livestock, will be judged at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Cole said the display space for produce at the 4-H building has been doubled this year and he wants to "encourage all gardeners to bring in their vegetables."

Vegetable entries will be taken at 9 a.m. tomorrow and judging will begin at 10 a.m. All other booths entered in the home economics and 4-H building were entered Monday afternoon following a morning of activity in decorating booths.

The judging of 4-H home economics and miscellaneous projects, as well as community household exhibits, began this morning.

Exhibits this year are restricted to 4-H members and students in agriculture in the county high schools, community exhibits of crops and garden produce, flower and art exhibits and open class home economics exhibits.

Cole was not as optimistic about some crop exhibits this year. A sugar beet division was begun last year. However, the crop has been so late this year that some farmers did not plan to enter.

The 4-H judging contest are on tap tomorrow. Livestock judging by the youngsters will begin at 8 a.m., with home economics judging to start at 9 a.m.

The judging of sheep quality and fitting and showing will be at 10 a.m., judging of booth display at 11 a.m. and judging of dairy quality, fitting and showing at 1 p.m.

AFT at Jerome tonight

JEROME -- The Antique Festival Theatre will present "Pickeles n' Pipes" at 8:30 p.m. today at the Jerome High School football field.

The program is being sponsored by the Jerome Chamber of Commerce in an effort to raise funds for next year's bicentennial celebration.

Members of the cast will also be guests at a potluck picnic in the North Park at 5:30 p.m. today.

Jerome residents who are providing housing for the cast and chamber board members will provide the food for the picnic. Anyone interested in meeting the cast is invited to attend the picnic. Those attending are asked to bring food for their family members attending and their own table service, according to Lloyd Duncan, chamber of commerce president.

Duncan said if it should rain tonight, an alternate site is available and will be announced at the football field.

Chancey heads health board

TWIN FALLS -- William Chancey, Twin Falls has been chosen to chair the South-Central District Health Department board again this year, with Dr. Charles Parker, Hailey, as vice chairman.

Representatives from other counties include John A. Clark, Oakley, Cassia County; Henry Schodde, Heyburn, Minidoka County; Dr. Robert Thackeray, Jerome, and Don Fredericksen, Gooding.

Walter Bowman, Dietrich, the Lincoln County representative, began a two-year term at the July reorganization meeting of the board. Representatives from Lincoln and Camas counties trade off two-year terms. Camas County's Gwendolyn Kranz is now an ex-officio member until July, 1977.

Valley signup

VALLEY SCHOOLS -- School registration for the Valley district begins Wednesday, with school officially opening Aug. 25, according to Superintendent Arlyn Boddy, who announced the dates at the school board's Monday meeting.

The early registration is necessary because of a week-long educational workshop being conducted by the Idaho Department of Education for all Valley High School faculty members Aug. 19-22.

Seniors will register Wednesday from 8 a.m. until noon and juniors from 12 to 2 p.m. Sophomores register Thursday from 9 a.m. until noon and freshmen from 12 to 2 p.m. Eighth graders register Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

A full day of classwork is scheduled for the first day of school, Boddy said.

Hot lunch prices will remain the same as last year, with elementary students paying 40 cents, high school students 45 cents and adults 65 cents.

Dr. Al Luke, associate superintendent of public instruction, will conduct the workshop assisted by 10 members of the department of education. Among topics to be discussed are curriculum, guidance and counseling, music and art education, science, social sciences, career education, self-esteem, evaluation and media arts.

Faculty members were hired by the board at the meeting. Craig Hall will be the new high school principal. Marguerite Quesnel, graduate of the University of Idaho, will be the new girls' physical education director. Wayne Miller, graduate of the University of Utah, will be the new music teacher, and Paula Lucas, University of Utah graduate, has been hired to teach the second grade.

The board awarded the coal bid to Morgan-Lindsay, Eden, and the milk bid went to Idaho Dairy Farmers Inc., Jerome.

Admission prices to this year's athletic events were set. Adults will pay $1.75; students in grades 7-12 without activity cards will pay $1, and children in grades 1-6, 50 cents, with children under 6 years old admitted free.

Board members toured all buildings in the district to inspect facilities and see if they were ready for school.

Rupert plans recreational program for area disadvantaged child

By SHANE O'NEIL

Times-News writer

RUPERT -- The City of Rupert will undertake a recreational program for disadvantaged children despite some doubts expressed by councilmen.

At a meeting with an Idaho Parks and Recreation Department representative Monday, city councilmen agreed to apply for a $2,000 grant. The funds will be used to provide a recreational program primarily for disadvantaged children and with emphasis on migrants.

But councilmen had several reservations about the program. One key point was that the program will only be two weeks long, since grant regulations call for the program to end on Aug. 31.

Another major issue was that of insurance for transportation of the migrant children. This was apparently resolved when Mayor Wendell Johnson called the Minidoka County School District and received approval for lease of a schoolbus.

Councilmen already had expressed a willingness to make formal application for the grant. But they had planned to use $200 of the money and give the rest to the Idaho Migrant Council to establish the program.

But Gale Lewis of the Idaho Parks and Recreation Department said this would not be allowed. She said the funds must be used for disadvantaged children in an on-going program, not to create a new program in addition to the city's regular city program.

She said the city must remain responsible for the program and could not sub-contract any part of it. That included transportation, which had been offered by Juan Nava of the migrant council.

The grant application showed $300 for transportation to bring the migrant children from the labor camps to Rupert. Nava had offered to transport them in a 15-passenger van. When Miss Lewis said the migrant council could not do it, Nava was agreeable to letting the van to the city.

But Councilman George McDonald pointed out that Nava had estimated 700 youngsters would come from the labor camp. He said this raised a "problem with the limited facility of a van." He suggested a school bus, which eventually was agreed upon.

Floyd Green, who carries the city's insurance policy, then said that the insurance could be arranged if a specific lease agreement were made with the school district separate from the city-district general lease agreement.

Fitting the grant program to the city's existing recreational program was another problem pointed out by Mayor Johnson at the outset.

The funds did not become available until July 1. Miss Lewis said Idaho did not sign its grant paper until early July that month and was notified of fund availability only the day before the papers were signed.

She said Rupert was one of the first three cities to receive notification that they were entitled to a grant. She said other cities were not notified until last week.

Rupert came just as the city's regular summer recreation program was coming to a close. The only way to utilize the funds was to reopen a program.

Dan Schab, head of the city's recreation department, told the council he would be out of town the remainder of this week. However, he said his office could arrange a schedule and the program could start next Monday.

Although he wondered about renewal of a baseball season, he said he believed an unstructured program along playground lines would work.

In answer to a question by Mayor Johnson, Schab admitted the program might interfere with public use of the tennis courts, but added that the city had just completed its session of tennis lessons and that extra time was available.

Mayor Johnson also emphasized that Rupert has always opened its recreational programs to everybody, whether residents or not. He said all the city programs are for the disadvantaged, as well as those who are not.

He said the funded program would also have to be open to anyone wishing to take advantage of it.

Councilman McDonald added that he would "rather see all kids dovetailed into a single program, because we've never turned anyone away."

Councilmen generally agreed that they would like to get the migrant children into the program "when they first come here" next year so they "would not be segregated" or treated any differently.

Miss Lewis repeated that the funds must be spent and the equipment and supplies used before Aug. 31. Mayor Johnson suggested the city might start with its equipment while awaiting the new equipment purchased under the grant.

When the mayor asked for a consensus, Councilman McDonald said, "If all the details, particularly the insurance, work out, then this is fine."

Councilman Dwainelle Alfred remarked, "I was really skeptical about the insurance program and the city's responsibility."

He said he approved of the program but emphasized that the city must keep absolute control of it, because the grant placed full responsibility on the city.

Developers pledge funds for Hailey fire station

By BART QUESNEL

Times-News writer

HAILEY -- McCulloch Properties Inc., developers of Woodside, pledged $30,000 to the city three years ago for the construction of a fire station.

The Hailey City Council disclosed the amount and the donor Monday night during a regular council meeting. Bob Thomas, Hailey fire chief, presented rough sketches of the proposed new building to the council.

The city is still uncertain whether construction of the building will have to be put to bid since the money is free and not collected from taxes.

Accord near on TF policy

By DAVID HORSMAN

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS -- In a luncheon meeting Monday, Twin Falls City officials and private developers and engineers found that they are in near agreement on a proposed policy for city involvement in construction projects.

The developers and engineers had earlier objected to a provision that the city engineering department would perform construction surveying and staking for all projects. They said the department might be overtaxed by the job and unable to do it in a "timely fashion." They feared that projects might be held up if city engineers couldn't find the time to do the surveying and staking.

In the Monday meeting, the City Council agreed to delete that requirement from the new policy, but retained other wording that makes the city responsible for inspecting and testing all construction work.

According to city engineer George Michael, the new policy represents a "trade off" with developers, giving the city more assurance that projects are properly built.

City inspection and testing of new streets is prime objective of the policy.

Formerly, the city had earlier objected to a provision that the city engineering department would perform construction surveying and staking for all street signs, lights and traffic control devices.

Mayor Winston Jones Monday instructed Michael, in revising the policy for presentation at the next council meeting, to insure that city's costs for developments remain about the same. The "trade off" in services should not cost the city more money, he said.

Instead, the city will pay for the inspection and testing for fire hydrants and for all street signs, lights and traffic control devices.

Mayor Winston Jones Monday instructed Michael, in revising the policy for presentation at the next council meeting, to insure that city's costs for developments remain about the same. The "trade off" in services should not cost the city more money, he said.

The board approved a request by Jay Henley for continuation of his program of evening judo classes in the high school gymnasium. The classes will be offered on Monday evenings.

Rupe reported on remodeling of a storeroom into a classroom for the resource teacher in special education. He said the project is nearly complete and the room will be ready when school opens.

Wendell ups lunch prices

WENDELL -- The Wendell School Board approved a five-cent increase in the price of student lunches for the coming school year at a meeting Monday night.

Supt. Lawrence LaToue said the increase will bring the lunch prices to 40 cents for elementary students, 45 cents for junior and senior high school students and 60 cents for adults.

The price increase was made on the recommendation of Mrs. Giselle Johnson, school lunch supervisor, and Mildred Frith, school lunchbookkeeper, who met with the board and reported on last year's lunch program.

The board approved a request by Jay Henley for continuation of his program of evening judo classes in the high school gymnasium. The classes will be offered on Monday evenings.

Hansen man injured

HANSEN -- A Hansen man was injured Sunday when he removed a car from a burning shed.

Lester Johnson was dismissed from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Monday after being treated for hand and arm lacerations suffered when he punched through the window of a four-wheel drive vehicle removed from the shed.

According to Sheriff Paul Corder, the fire broke out Sunday afternoon in a machine shop belonging to Alfred W. Williams. Several pieces of machinery, a second car and a motorcycle were destroyed in the fire which consumed the shed.

The Kimberly Fire Department responded to the blaze but firemen were unable to save the structure.

Corder said the shed was located about a quarter mile east of the Hansen blinking light.

Last-second shot defeats Indiana

VOROSHILLOVGRAD, USSR (UPI) — A last-second shot by Alexander Zhdan gave the Soviet Union a dramatic 83-84 victory over the Indiana All-Stars Monday as the Americans wound up their month-long European basketball tour.

The Soviets were led by seven foot three-inch center Vladimir Tchekchenko who scored 37 points in the contest, 24 of which came in the second half. The lead changed hands 11 times in the final 10 minutes as both teams gave it an all out effort.

Pirates snap 5-game losing streak by beating Atlanta with 6-run rally, 8-1

ATLANTA (UPI) — Daring base running by Renie Stennett in the early innings and a six-run rally in the top of the ninth Monday night sparked Pittsburgh to an 8-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves, snapping the Pirates' five-game losing streak.

Pittsburgh, Atlanta

Stennett's 4th-inning triple and a sacrifice fly by Mike Sweeney in the 9th provided the winning runs.

Atlanta's 10th-inning rally was stopped by a double play.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is certainly no day to state critical ideas to those who have any control over your affairs. A tactful and diplomatic attitude is important now. Organize thoughts before discussion and then eliminate problems.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Forget fun and go after aims important for future security. Don't let any more grass grow under your feet. Happy p.m. with kin.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Those business talks should not include family affairs, or you could lose out where it means the most to you. Increase goodwill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take better care of health. Schedule activities sensibly. Don't permit nittus to dictate your valuable time.

WORMEN (June 22 to July 21) Put your fine talents to work with vengeance early. Evening is most agreeable with the one you love. Use caution.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more concern for kin or others could be big trouble at home. Whatever annoys you of a personal nature should be gotten rid of.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forget personal worries. Get out in the business world and make a better place for yourself so you increase income.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Consult a monetary expert so you can build up your own assets wisely. Don't permit friends to waste your time now. Romantic p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Wind up personal affairs, reorganizing business to background today. Avoid trouble by steering clear of highbrow in bad mood.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 20) Before beginning any new ideas, clear up present situation logically, starting early. Put a productive new idea to work in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 21 to Jan. 20) Go to some dynamic friend who can help you solve some problem easily. Avoid those persons who are eyeing your assets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show great efficiency in vocational matters and derive better benefits therefrom.

Steer clear of partner who overrates self.

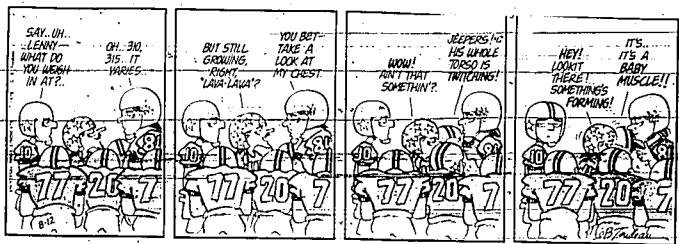

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Delve into unknown matters and learn much for future that will be profitable. Attend to necessary duties early. Sociable p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will want to decide upon some course of action and then carry through with it in a most positive fashion, therefore teach ethics so the energies will be expended in the right directions, otherwise the mentality might work in just the opposite way. Much success is possible here and a pillar of the community is in this chart. Give sports early, too. "The Stars impel, they do not compel!" What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Our Love-and War man is particularly fond of a couple of lines written by John Collier: "They hugged each other very tightly, exchanging kisses rendered surprisingly salty by their tears." This is thought by some to add relish, as with peanuts, by bringing out the sweetness."

THE WHITE HOUSE bootlegger for President Warren G. Harding in the early Prohibition days has been identified as one Elias H. Mortimer.

IN ROMANCE, it is the female porcupine, not the male, who is usually the aggressor.

HEMINGWAY

Q. "Did the writer Ernest Hemingway ever say what he thought was the greatest American novel?"

A. Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" was his choice. "It's the best book we've had," he said. "All-American writing comes from that. There was nothing before. There has been nothing as good since."

THE FOREGOING brings to mind this week's favorite classified ad: "Help Wanted — Travel companion for raft-trip down the Mississippi. Contact Huckleberry Finn; Equal opportunity employer."

THE ANIMAL is now extinct, but there used to be a rhinoceros that was taller than any giraffe in the world, remarkably enough.

INTERMARRIAGE

Just about half-of-the-young-Americans-of-Japanese descent who get married now take matrimonial mates of a race other than oriental. And just about a fourth of the Americans of Chinese descent do likewise. This is a marked change from the situation 15 years ago. Then, only one fourteenth of the Americans of Oriental ancestry married outside their race.
